

Development of Spoken Language Policy

January 2023

Document to be read in conjunction with other key school policies (listed within document)

Spoken Language.

A high-quality education in English will teach children to speak and write fluently so that they can communicate their ideas and emotions to others and through their reading and listening, others can communicate with them.

All the skills of language are essential to participating fully as a member of society and therefore it is essential to ensure that teaching across the curriculum develops the oral literacy of our children at Wren's Nest.

Teachers should develop children's spoken language, reading, writing and vocabulary as integral aspects of the teaching of every subject. Fluency in the English Language is an essential life skill and the foundations for future successes.

The Intent of Spoken Language at Wren's Nest Primary School.

At Wren's Nest, we value Spoken Language as an important part of the children's entitlement to a broad and balanced curriculum. Spoken Language provides the children with the opportunities to develop and extend skills and an opportunity to express their individual interests, thoughts and ideas.

Our aim is to develop all children's skills in spoken language so that they can communicate effectively and confidently in front of a range of audiences in different situations. These skills are encouraged in every area of our curriculum, as good communication skills can enhance every type of learning. The children are encouraged to explore ideas through talk; challenge each other's opinions and develop their own reasoned arguments, as well as talking in full sentences with a clear and confident voice.

The expectations of a language rich curriculum.

The National Curriculum for English reflects the importance of spoken language in children's development across the whole curriculum - cognitively, socially and linguistically. Spoken language underpins the development of reading and writing. The quality and variety of language that children hear and speak are vital for developing their vocabulary and grammar and their understanding for reading and writing. Teachers should therefore ensure the continual development of children's confidence and competence in spoken language and listening skills. Pupils should develop a capacity to explain their understanding of books and other reading, and to prepare their ideas before they write. They must be assisted in making their thinking clear to themselves as well as to others and teachers should ensure that pupils build secure foundations by using discussion to probe and remedy their misconceptions. Children should also be taught to understand and use the conventions for discussion and debate.

Language through the Curriculum.

At Wren's Nest we believe that it is important to create a language rich learning environment throughout the curriculum. As a result, we have ensured that all lessons contain the features that encourage the use of 'Spoken Language' and children develop their oracy skills, building on a wide repertoire of vocabulary that they can use to describe their learning and experiences. All units of work, throughout the curriculum, have 3 tiers of vocabulary that are specific to the unit. Opportunities for Oracy activities are planned into each lesson through the use of The Big Questions, Wow Moments, drama, music, MTYT and TTYP activities. Knowledge Organiser, that give an overview for each of the units taught, also promote discussion in the classroom and at home. Encouraging parents to engage in their children's learning promotes a positive home learning environment where children feel valued.

The Statutory Requirements:

Statutory requirements which underpin all aspects of spoken language across the primary school years form part of the national curriculum. These are reflected and contextualised within this policy.

Early Learning Goals

Communication and Language

- Speaking children express themselves effectively, showing awareness of listeners' needs. They use past, present and future forms accurately when talking about events that have happened or are to happen in the future. They develop their own narratives and explanations by connecting ideas or events.
- Listening and attention children listen attentively in a range of situations. They listen to stories, accurately anticipating key events and respond to what they hear with relevant comments, questions or actions. They give their attention to what others say and respond appropriately, while engaged in another activity.
- Understanding children follow instructions involving several ideas or actions. They answer 'how' and 'why' questions about their experiences and in response to stories or events.

The National Curriculum - Years 1-6

Pupils should be taught to:

- listen and respond appropriately to adults and their peers
- ask relevant questions to extend their understanding and build vocabulary and knowledge
- articulate and justify answers, arguments and opinions
- give well-structured descriptions and explanations
- maintain attention and participate actively in collaborative conversations, staying on topic and initiating and responding to comments
- use spoken language to develop understanding through speculating, hypothesising, imagining and exploring ideas
- speak audibly and fluently with an increasing command of Standard English
- participate in discussions, presentations, performances and debates
- gain, maintain and monitor the interest of the listener(s)

- consider and evaluate different viewpoints, attending to and building on the contributions of others
- select and use appropriate registers for effective communication.

Implementation

At Wren's Nest it is important that children not only receive a broad and balanced curriculum but that they can progress though the year groups using a seamless map of progression created by a systematic and consistent teaching model. For that reason, our English lessons are based on the programmes produced by Ruth Miskin, which consist of: Read, Write Inc Phonics, Fresh Start, Spelling and Literacy and Language. These schemes of work provide children with a varied diet of language rich texts which instigate discussion and offer many opportunities for the children to develop their spoken language skills.

The programmes develop the children's confidence and ability in their spoken language and listening skills. Rules for discussion are explicitly taught and the schemes support many of the activities with visual prompts to ensure all children can fully participate in the lessons.

The teaching sequences in every unit of work involves listening and responding to both the teacher and partners. The TTYP (turn to your partner) and MTYT (my turn your turn) signals are embedded from the start of the programme, so that frequent, structured discussion flows naturally through every unit. Questions are encouraged throughout the programme, including a regular 'Big Question' at the end of days 1-8 in each of the units of work. These questions explore an idea linked to an aspect of the text covered each day. Children vote to explore one of the questions as a 'Very Big Question' in a sustained discussion in every unit.

Partner work is continually used for children to practise their descriptions, explanations, and narratives for a variety of purposes. Discussions with partners, in smaller groups or as a whole class are an integral part of the daily lesson, giving children the opportunity to explore their ideas and predict outcomes. Frequent invitations for children to share their ideas in front of the class or in small group situations encourages confidence in speaking audibly and fluently using Standard English. Role play and performances are key aspects of the 'Reading and Writing' weeks, offering opportunities for a wide variety of oral work.

The teaching model not only provides children with the opportunity to practise their oral skills, but their listening skills and the ability to take turns, an important facet of discussion, are refined, encouraging children to maintain their attention and actively participate in a collaborative conversation (Appendix 1, 2 and 3 matches the Read Write Inc Programme to the requirements of the National Curriculum - Spoken Language).

Read, Write Inc. Phonics

Read, Write Inc. Phonics is a whole school approach to teaching literacy that creates fluent readers, willing writers and confident speakers. It is a programme that is designed to enable children to read at speed, so they are able to focus on comprehension, vocabulary and spelling skills.

Each lesson has five key principles that underpin the teaching:

Purpose - teachers share the purpose of every lesson so that children are able to focus on that key learning point.

Participation - every child participates throughout the lesson. Working with a partner is a fundamental element of the lesson, encouraging dialogue and for support.

Praise - all children are continually praised for effort and learning and not ability.

Pace - the entire sessions are devoted to the teaching of the specific area of learning that is a focus for that day, pace is a crucial part of the lesson, keeping children engaged and talking about their learning as a group or within partner work.

Passion - Teachers at Wren's Nest are passionate about their teaching. This ethos creates a stimulating learning environment rich in vocabulary with many opportunities for discussion.

Fresh Start

For some children, the transition from phonics to Literacy and Language needs a more progressive approach. For these children Ruth Miskin's 'Fresh Start' programme is used. This explicit programme allows children to learn and recite new words and sounds while consistently reviewing previous learning through meaningful discussion using age-appropriate materials.

Wren's Nest as an Inclusive School.

Talk for Writing

At Wren's Nest we believe that every child can succeed, and it is important that we are able to modify and tailor our curriculum so that all children are supported, which will enable them to reach their full potential. We know that every scheme of work has its limitations and will not support every child fully. Therefore, for some of our children in our provision groups, Talk for Writing (Pie Corbett), is used during the literacy lesson. The 'Talk for Writing' approach enables children to read and write independently for a variety of audiences and purposes. A key feature of the pedagogy is that children are able to internalise the language structure needed to write through 'talking the text' as well as close reading. This approach, to 'talking the text' helps our children to think, learn and make sense of the world. Encouraging our children to talk as part of their learning experience will mean their educational progress, including 'Spoken Language' is enhanced.

Early Communication

Makaton is a unique language programme that uses symbols, signs and speech to enable children to communicate. It supports the children at Wren's Nest with the development of essential communication skills such as attention and listening, comprehension, memory, recall and organisation of language and expression.

With Makaton, our children are able to use signs, with speech, in spoken word order. This helps provide extra clues about what someone is saying. Using these symbols can help children who have no speech or whose speech is unclear. Using this support can help children who have limited speech and those who cannot or prefer not to sign.

For children who have experienced the frustration of being unable to communicate meaningfully or effectively, Makaton is a proven support for learning. It takes away that frustration and enables individuals to connect with other people and the world around them. This opens up all kinds of possibilities.

Widgit

Supporting communication and reading

Learning to read, write and communicate effectively can be a challenge for some of our young children, especially when new concepts are being introduced. Younger children can also find a new learning environment daunting and hard to navigate. Where required, Widgit symbols are used at Wren's Nest to add support and motivate children. Symbol labelling, visual timetables, and educational materials, make it easier for children to access information and feel confident in their learning environment.

Monitoring information:

The policy will be promoted and implemented throughout the school by all staff. The school will review this policy through the Curriculum and Standards committee annually and assess its implementation and effectiveness.

Statutory requirements

Pupils should be taught to:

- listen and respond appropriately to adults and their peers
- ask relevant questions to extend their understanding and knowledge
- use relevant strategies to build their vocabulary
- articulate and justify answers, arguments and opinions
- give well-structured descriptions, explanations and narratives for different purposes, including for expressing feelings

- participate in discussions, presentations, performances, role play, improvisations and debates
- gain, maintain and monitor the interest of the listener(s)
- consider and evaluate different viewpoints, attending to and building on the contributions of others
- select and use appropriate registers for effective communication.

Notes and guidance (non-statutory)

These statements apply to all years. The content should be taught at a level appropriate to the age of the pupils. Pupils should build on the oral language skills that have been taught in preceding years.

Pupils should be taught to develop their competence in spoken language and listening to enhance the effectiveness with which they are able to communicate across a range of contexts and to a range of audiences. They should therefore have opportunities to work in groups of different sizes – in pairs, small groups, large groups and as a whole class. Pupils should understand how to take turns and when and how to participate constructively in conversations and debates.

Attention should also be paid to increasing pupils' vocabulary, ranging from describing their immediate world and feelings to developing a broader, deeper and richer vocabulary to discuss abstract concepts and a wider range of topics, and to enhancing their knowledge about language as a whole.

Notes and guidance (non-statutory)

Pupils should receive constructive feedback on their spoken language and listening, not only to improve their knowledge and skills but also to establish secure foundations for effective spoken language in their studies at primary school, helping them to achieve in secondary education and beyond.

To include adverbs of time and conjunctions to help the reader and understand the sequence in which things happen (First, Then, Now) and cause and effect (so, therefore).

Purpose: Children will write a watercycle poem, and participate in a class poetry performance.

Reading:

- I can explore and discuss key features of different types of poems.
- I can recognise and discuss poetic techniques such as alliteration in 'Water-cycle'.
- I can explore a poem and perform it.

Writing:

- I can use at least two of the special poetic techniques we have studied, example rhyme, rhythm, alliteration, repetition, onomatopoeia.
- I can use some unusual combinations of two words to build interesting descriptions of water.
- I can present my work in an interesting shape that helps the reader imagine what I am describing.

Purpose: To write two clear and useful explanations, then resent them to the class.

Reading:

- I can explore the aspects of explanation texts that make them clear for the reader.
- I can investigate different types of explanation texts.

Writing:

- I can describe a process using clear and useful diagrams, with labels and symbols.
- I can use continuous prose to explain a process.
- I can be used as part of a presentation, so I can share my understanding of a process with my class.

National Curriculum English programmes of study content	Read Write Inc. Literacy and Language	Read Write Inc. Spelling
Spoken language	Developing children's confidence and ability in their spoken language and listening skills is an integral part of the Literacy and Language programme, throughout all year groups. Rules for discussion are explicitly taught and there is a poster for 'Effective discussion' that can be printed out and displayed in the classroom.
Pupils should be taught to:
'Listen and respond appropriately to adults and their peers.'	The teaching sequence in every unit involves listening and responding to both the teacher and partners. The TTYP (Turn To Your Partner) and MTYT (My Turn Your Turn) signals are embedded from the start of the programme, so that frequent, structured discussion flows naturally through every unit.
'Ask relevant questions to extend their understanding and knowledge.'	Questions are encouraged throughout the programme, including a Big Question discussion at the end of Days 1-8 in every unit. These questions explore an idea linked to an aspect of the text covered each day. Children vote to explore one of the questions as a Very Big Question in a sustained 20-30 minute discussion in every unit.

'Use relevant strategies to build their vocabulary.'	Listening carefully to texts and rehearsing orally what they want to write all help to build the children's vocabulary.
'Articulate and justify answers, arguments and opinions.'	See notes above on Big Questions and Very Big Questions.
'Give well-structured descriptions, explanations and narratives for different purposes, including for expressing feelings.'	Partner work is continually used for children to practise their descriptions, explanations and narratives for a variety of purposes.
'Maintain attention and participate actively in collaborative conversations, staying on topic and initiating and responding to comments.'	See notes above on Big Questions and Very Big Questions.
'Use spoken language to develop understanding through speculating, hypothesising, imagining and exploring ideas.'	Discussion with partners, in groups and as a class is used throughout the programme to explore ideas and predict outcomes.
'Speak audibly and fluently with an increasing command of Standard English.'	Frequent invitations for partners to share their ideas in front of the class, encourages confidence in speaking audibly and fluently – and in Standard English.
'Gain, maintain and monitor the interest of the listener(s).'	Children will become more skilled at this through the continual paired, group and whole class oral work.
'Select and use appropriate registers for effective communication.'	Children will practise these skills through the regular oral activities which cover a wide variety of spoken tasks for different purposes and audiences.

purposes.	for Year 3 and Year 4. Children are taught to think carefully about the audience and purpose for each text. For example: Year Unit 1 focuses on different forms of information texts; Year 4 Unit 3 explores the organizational features of explanation texts.
Using dictionaries to check the meaning of words that they have read.	Language activities throughout the programme encourage children to use dictionaries to check the definition of words. For example: Year 3 Unit 3 focuses on dictionary definitions of vocabulary used to talk about stories. Year 4 Unit 5 asks children to check dictionary definitions of words they have noted and explained in their Daily log.
<ul> <li>Increasing their familiarity with a wide range of books, including fairy stories, myths and legends, and retelling some of these orally.</li> </ul>	A wide range of fiction texts are covered in materials for Year 3 and Year 4, including a folktale (Year 3 Unit 6), and traditional tales told in verse (Year 4 Unit 3). Many of these stories are retold and extended orally, often in preparation for the children's own writing.
Identifying themes and conventions in a wide range of books.	Covered throughout materials in Year 3 and Year 4, including discussion stemming from Anthology texts, but also linked to children's wider knowledge and reading. The Story store activities build on prior knowledge of stories and focus on new themes.
<ul> <li>Preparing poems and play scripts to read aloud and to perform, showing understanding through intonation, tone, volume and action.</li> </ul>	Practised throughout the programme in Year 3 and Year 4, through Dramatic reconstruction activities. <ul> <li>Recognising some different forms of poetry [for example, free verse, narrative poetry].'</li> </ul>	A wide variety of poetic forms are covered. For example, Year 3 Unit 4: tongue twisters, riddles, nonsense poems, performance poems; Year 4 Unit 3: narrative verse.
'Understand what they read, in books they can read independently, by:
<ul> <li>Checking that the text makes sense to them, discussing their understanding and explaining the meaning of words in context.</li> </ul>	This is done throughout the programme through the three-layer approach to reading new texts.
Asking questions to improve their understanding of a text.	Questioning is an integral part of the programme, designed to engage readers fully with what they are reading, triggerin discussion, speculation and predictions.
Drawing inferences such as inferring characters' feelings, thoughts and motives from their actions, and justifying inferences with evidence.	Throughout the programme, children are encouraged to explore implications in texts, rather than just look at 'surface meanings'. Role play, discussion, searchin for clues in texts are all built in to activities to develop children's inference skills.
<ul> <li>Predicting what might happen from details stated and implied.</li> </ul>	Regular speculation and discussion about the development of stories is encouraged through What if activities, and also explored through the 'clues' and 'evidence' stages when reading a new story.

<ul> <li>Identifying main ideas drawn from more than one paragraph and summarising these.</li> </ul>	Throughout the programme, children are encouraged to identify, discuss and summarise, both orally and sometimes in note form, main ideas in a text. This is often part of the Deconstruction activities for non-fiction texts, e.g. Year 3
	Unit 5.
<ul> <li>Identifying how language, structure, and presentation contribute to meaning</li> </ul>	In fiction, poetry and non-fiction texts, children are explicitly taught how meanin is build up through the language, structure and presentation of texts.
	For example, Year 4 Unit 2 encourages children to make connections between form and content in poetry.
'Retrieve and record information from non-fiction.'	In all non-fiction texts, children identify information, usually orally at first, leading to written notes and then more developed writing of their own
'Participate in discussion about both books that are read to them and those they can read for themselves, taking turns and listening to what others say.'	Discussion of books and texts is an integral part of the programme, both as a whole class, in groups and with a partner. Taking turns and listening are skills that are practised throughout.

Spoken language	Developing children's confidence and ability in their spoken language and listening skills is an integral part of the Literacy and Language programme, throughout all year groups. Rules for discussion are explicitly taught and there is a poster for 'Effective discussion' that can be printed out and displayed in the classroom.
Pupils should be taught to:
'Listen and respond appropriately to adults and their peers.'	The teaching sequence in every unit involves listening and responding to both the teacher and partners. The TTYP (Turn To Your Partner) and MTYT (My Turn Your Turn) signals are embedded from the

and to perform, showing understanding through intonation, tone and volume so that the meaning is clear to an audience.'	In Year 5 Unit 3, children plan and rehearse a performance of a poem, in a Dramatic reconstruction activity. They consider aspects such as pace, volume and expression to enhance their performance. In Year 6 Unit 6, children improvise a scene and use shouts and chants to give their performance impact.
'Understand what they read by:

<ul> <li>Checking that the text makes sense to them, discussing their understanding and explaining the meaning of words in context.</li> </ul>	Activities such as Special phrases and Word power focus on vocabulary and meaning in the context of Anthology texts.
<ul> <li>Asking questions to improve their understanding.</li> </ul>	Activities such as What if not? give children opportunity to speculate and question plots, character motivation and settings, extending their understanding of what they read.
<ul> <li>Drawing inferences such as inferring characters' feelings, thoughts and motives from their actions, and justifying inferences with evidence.</li> </ul>	Role play, improvisation, freeze frames, discussion and all dramatic reconstructions help children to draw inferences about what they read
<ul> <li>Predicting what might happen from details stated and implied.</li> </ul>	The three-stage approach to reading all texts allows opportunity for children to speculate and predict what might happen next.
Summarising the main ideas drawn from more than one paragraph, identifying key details that support the main ideas.	Summarizing skills are taught and practised throughout the programme in Years 5 and 6. For example in Year 5 Unit 6, children complete a Summarise activity to help them conclude an argument text; Year 6 Unit 6, children identify key ideas in a Deconstruction activity.
<ul> <li>Identifying how language, structure, and presentation contribute to meaning.'</li> </ul>	This is an integral part of reading all the texts in the Year 5 and Year 6 programme.
'Discuss and evaluate how authors use language, including figurative language, considering the impact on the reader.'	The identification of how language is used to create impact on the reader is practised throughout the programme. In Year 5 Unit 3, children focus on the use of personification as well as other forms of imagery to create impact.
'Distinguish between statements of fact and opinion.'	Year 6 Unit 5, children look at the differences between fact and opinion when reading a persuasive text. In Year 5 Unit 4, children consider the factual content of biographies as opposed to the additional more subjective content in autobiographies.

'Retrieve, record and present information from non-fiction.'	Accurate information retrieval is practised in all non-fiction texts throughout the programme.
'Participate in discussions about books that are read to them and those they can read for themselves, building on their own and others' ideas and challenging views courteously.'	Discussion about books is encouraged throughout the programme, but particularly in the Think and link activities, which draw out children's existing knowledge of stories and books.
'Explain and discuss their understanding of what they have read, including through formal presentations and debates, maintaining a focus on the topic and using notes where necessary.'	Formal debates and discussions are included in activities linked to both non-fiction and fiction texts. For example, in Year 5 Unit 6, children prepare for and role-play a studio debate focusing on junk food. In Year 6 Unit 5, children read persuasive texts and then give their own persuasive presentation.
'Provide reasoned justifications for their views.'	In all discussion and debate activities, children are reminded to back up their arguments with evidence from the texts or from their own experience.

Pupils should be taught to:
'Plan their writing by:
<ul> <li>Identifying the audience for and purpose of the writing, selecting the appropriate form and using other similar writing as models for their own.</li> </ul>	This process is integral to the whole programme. In each unit, children follow this process for writing both fiction and non-fiction texts.
<ul> <li>Noting and developing initial ideas, drawing on reading and research where necessary.</li> </ul>	Daily logs are kept by children in which they note down and develop ideas for their own writing.
In writing narratives, considering how authors have developed characters and settings in what pupils have read, listened to or seen performed.'	Throughout the programme, children discuss and explore how characters and settings are developed by writers in order to use similar skills in their own writing. For example, Year 5 Unit 1, children focus on the role of different characters in the development of the story. In Year 6 Unit 3, children focus on a historical story, set in 1938.
'Draft and write by:
<ul> <li>Selecting appropriate grammar and vocabulary, understanding how such choices can change and enhance meaning.</li> </ul>	In the Year 5 and Year 6 programmes, children practise using appropriate grammar in their writing, focusing on aspects such as the use of relative clauses, adverbs, parenthesis, noun phrases and the passive voice. Careful choice of vocabulary is encouraged through a range of activities such as Word power and Build a sentence.

<ul> <li>In narratives, describing settings, characters and atmosphere and integrating dialogue to convey character and advance the action.</li> </ul>	The development of characters, settings and atmosphere through writing narratives is carefully structured, including the integration of dialogue, for example in Year 5 Unit 4.
<ul> <li>Precising longer passages.</li> </ul>	Summarising skills are practised through writing conclusions to discussion texts, for example in Year 5 Unit 6, and through preparation for journalistic writing in Year 6 Unit 1.
Using a wide range of devices to build cohesion within and across paragraphs.	Children are encouraged to use a range of devices in their writing to bring cohesion to their texts. For example in Year 5 Unit 1, children look at the way that pronouns, conjunctions and determiners can link ideas within a paragraph, and how adverbs of time can link paragraphs in an instruction text. In Year 6 Unit 6, children look at how adverbials, repetition and ellipsis can be used as cohesive devices.
<ul> <li>Using further organisational and presentational devices to structure text and to guide the reader [for example, headings, bullet points, underlining].'</li> </ul>	The use of organizational and presentational devices to structure a text is modelled in many non-fiction texts, then children are encouraged to write their own texts, using similar devices. For example, an instructional text in Year 5 Unit 1, an explanation text in Year 6 Unit 6.
'Evaluate and edit by:
<ul> <li>Assessing the effectiveness of their own and others' writing.</li> </ul>	Self and peer assessment is built into all extended writing activities, encouraging constant experimentation and improvement to work.

<ul> <li>Proposing changes to vocabulary, grammar and punctuation to enhance effects and clarify meaning.</li> </ul>	As above, the writing process is staged, so that there are plenty of opportunities to change and improve vocabulary, grammar and punctuation of written work, in order to increase its impact and clarity.
Ensuring the consistent and correct use of tense throughout a piece of writing.	The need for consistent and correct use of tenses is emphasised in many units, for example in Year 5 Unit 4, the need for past tense usage in writing biographical texts.
Ensuring correct subject and verb agreement when using singular and plural, distinguishing between the language of speech and writing and choosing the appropriate register.	The use of consistent Standard English is practised throughout the writing activities, as well as identifying appropriate opportunities to use less formal language and register. For example in Year 5 Unit 6, children look at the differences between language in newspaper reports, compared to dialogue in playscripts. They then write their own script.
'Proof-read for spelling and punctuation errors.'	Proofreading is built into the final stages of the writing process throughout all units in the programme.
'Perform their own compositions, using appropriate intonation, volume, and movement	Children are given opportunity to perform their compositions, for example in Year 6 Unit 5 to
